From: Tony Beamish tony.beamish@me.com @

Subject: Law Society's Disciplinary hearing regarding Darren Bobroff

Date: 19 September 2014 11:02

To: Susan Louw SUSANL@Isnp.org.za Cc: Thinus Grobler grobler@Isnp.org.za

Dear Mr Grobler,

Please find attached the Judgment of the Disciplinary Committee of the Law Society of the Northern Provinces (LSNP).

Moneyweb will be publishing a story about the proceedings, and publishing, in full, the attached judgment.

What I intend to say in my story is that the decision by the LSNP is astounding. It effectively found Darren Bobroff guilty, but did not pass a verdict. This was compounded by calling him a "disgrace" to the profession. The LSNP then tried to keep it quiet rather than make the finding public my commencing proceedings to have his name struck from the roll of attorneys. My respectful view is that one cannot be both a disgrace to the profession and fit and proper to practice – they are mutually exclusive – and he has been found to be a disgrace.

My deadline to receive your comments, if any, is today at 15h00.

Regards,

Yours sincerely,

Tony Beamish

Tony Beamish - Special Investigations

Switchboard: 011 344 8600

Email: tony@beamish.co.za Website: www.moneyweb.co.za

Moneyweb Holdings Limited Oxford Office Park 5, 8th Street Houghton Estate Johannesburg P O Box 8, Melrose Arch, 2076 PGP - Threema - S/MIME @TonyBeamish @Moneyweb

See: Sting uncovers court file corruption

Webber Wentzel Legal Journalist of the Year 2013 - Print Category

"The winning entry exposes corruption in the administration and granting of garnishee orders. Debt collectors use garnishee orders to secure small debts of ordinary people by allowing for deductions directly against that person's salary. The journalist went beyond the usual reporting on this topic, by speaking to and securing affidavits from people against whom garnishee orders were obtained, by meticulously checking the accuracy of their claims and by using legal processes – including the Promotion of Access to Information Act – to gain access to evidence that uncovered fraud at a particular Magistrates Court where such orders are granted.

Told in a lively and provocative manner, the stories expose systemic abuses of thee garnishee process. It is a form of advocacy journalism that deals with a widespread problem that, so it is argued, contributed to the volatility of the situation at Marikana in the days before the Marikana massacre.

The winner in the print category is Tony Beamish for his story published by Moneyweb, "Fraud at court: another spoke in the garnishee wheel" and in Noseweek, "Officials Defy Access Law".

This carries a prize of R50 000."

Read my Moneyweb story here: Fraud at court: another spoke in the garnishee wheel

Read my two Noseweek stories here: "Officials defy access law" and "Catch me if you can!' - Yes, we can!"

